Small lightweight mobile alarm units can be carried to remotely activate call points or ceiling location units, to call for assistance at the touch of a button.

Mobile alarm units come in various forms and can be used as part of a staff alarm system for staff working in vulnerable situations or lone working. These units have Assistance & Emergency levels of alarm as well as optional man-down automatic alarm and emergency rip cord/toggle upgrades.

Or as part of a nurse call system for staff to remotely signal for assistance or use for staff presence recording, when used with the arm Call Logging software.

Residents can use these to activate a call on the nurse call system, which is ideal for lounges/communal areas and for use by more mobile people. Radio only pendants can be used in the garden giving greater independence to people.

Each device can also be individually programmed to a person's name if you need to know who the person is.
